

Resource Description and Access (RDA) and the Implications of RDA for Federal Depository Libraries

The U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO) has been keeping track of the upcoming implementation of the new cataloging standards, Resource Description and Access (RDA). Library Technical Information Services (LTIS) supervisors, managers, and bibliographic control staff have begun training on the new RDA standards. For additional information about these activities and how they will impact cataloging records for libraries, read more here.